Reading comprehension:

★ Read this short text about a Chilean celebration.

Chile

Chile officially proclaimed independence on the 12th February 1818, but Chileans celebrate their independence from Spain on September 18th.

Celebrations include parades, dancing, music, drinking, and eating traditional Chilean food. Children and their families usually fly kites cheerfully.

The day after Independence Day, 19th September, is also a national holiday, the Armed Forces Day. It includes military and naval parades and events celebrating Chile's military victories, including independence. Parades also include "huasos", the Chilean cowboys.
